“When DigiFarmz was looking for a US location, the Peoria area stood out as perfect. The people here are great—very welcoming, open to helping us, and working alongside us. Its central position within Illinois, which is in the heart of the corn and soybean belts, combined with the established ag industries and other companies in the region, as well as the farmers and crop fields all around, were definitive in our decision to establish roots here. Additionally, Peoria's central location and low cost of doing business make it an ideal spot for our growing company.”
